Dear Friends
A favourite platter.
Why?
Well look at what is written on the back!

DAINFERN GARDEN CLUB

Many, many years ago we were lucky enough to visit the 'Eden Project' in 2001 shortly after it opened and 'The Lost Gardens of Heligan' at the same time. When we returned we were asked to give a talk at a Dainfern Garden Club meeting and were presented with the platter as a 'thank you'. We still use it with great joy!

Parthenon, Acropolis, Athens

Sitting on the Stoep

To look straight you have got to build on the skew!

I don't know if you know that but two Greek architects who designed the Parthenon some 2½ thousand years ago did! The Parthenon, built BC 447-438, still dominates the Athens skyline today.

They did two things:

1. They humped the floor slightly in the middle – so lower on each side.
2. They made the columns very slightly pudgy and leaned them in slightly.

This had the effect of making the floor and the columns look straight.

These two architects built perhaps the most famous and most visible structure in the world that still dominates the ancient city of Athens and they built it skew! They built it with a floor that was not level surrounded by columns that are a little fatter near their middle and which were leaning slightly inwards. But everybody that visits sees a building with a level floor and straight columns – it is eye perfect!

Was it the world's greatest con?

Clever men these ancient Greeks!

How did they know how to get it wrong to get it right?

'Cos get it right, they did!

Of course, somewhere along the way they had that guy called Pythagoras with his 3 4 5 triangle (I used that system to set out our first house in 1966) but that only gives you a right angle so how do you work out the lean on a forty-foot column to make it look straight, when lined up with sixteen others?

Pythagoras lived in the 5th century BC so before the 4th century design and building of the Parthenon, so they had the benefit of his thoughts in the world of numbers and mathematics.

The interesting thing for us is that when we visited the Parthenon with the Classics

Department of Rhodes (how on earth did an engineer qualify for a Classics tour? Only because we knew the twin of the lecturer leading the group) we were made aware of these special features. So, I had the opportunity to line up the floors and columns. My viewing of the floor line at eye level more-or-less showed the very slight differences (because I knew it was there) although walking around on the Acropolis everything looked straight.

How did those architects know – amazing.

As an engineer years before our visit to the Acropolis I designed and built a long reinforced concrete bridge across the Macheke River in Zimbabwe. It had fourteen spans and I remember being told that a bridge must always be higher in the middle otherwise it would always seem to sag. But how much? So I made each column half an inch higher to the middle point then down again and it seemed to work very well. When cast and tarred it looked nice and flat despite the fact that it wasn't!

Years later I was ready and waiting when the lecturer described that skewness of the Parthenon, constructed that way to make it look straight. Have any of you noticed the skew?

Birds and Beasties

Rats:

Once again rats are making a nuisance of themselves. Please be very careful of what products are used to avoid secondary poisoning to our wildlife. Live catching is an alternative method, use a reputable eco-friendly company who can do this for you and make recommendations as opposed to you buying products off the shelf which are extremely poisonous to wildlife.

Aloes:

It was lovely to see pictures of some of the spectacular aloes in Dainfern. The Eastern Cape is definitely the Aloe Province and at this time of the year they are quite glorious. They give us great pleasure.

Spotted

Sean and Olivia have spotted some new African Black baby ducks in one of the dams-The mother is quite protective so it quite difficult to see exactly how many there are -let's hope the Water Monitors don't have a feast!

Sean will be keeping an eye on them- thank you Sean for your care!

Crackerjack

And just to remind us of our well-known Nursery Rhyme

*"There was a crooked man, and he walked a crooked mile,
He found a crooked sixpence against a crooked stile;
....."*

But if he was a clever Architect
It would all straighten out.
And have a different ending
Without any bending!

Take heart, let us all remain safe and healthy; and keep hope alive.

I think we are very lucky!

TAILOR MAKE YOUR SELLING STRATEGY

Uncertain times require lateral thinking. We like to think of selling property as being a team effort, that involves the client and the agent. It is important to sit together and try to work out the best strategy for selling your home. It involves honesty, good advice and a pro-active effort from both parties. This includes how you present your home to potential buyers. Imagine that first impression as the buyer crosses the threshold. You can choose to be the owner that has everything open and ready for a seamless entry or, a bit of homely chaos with controlling dogs or kids and a great experience thereafter. Everyone is different and we have to consider this. The main thing to do is de-clutter, move obstacles out of the way so that doors can open freely, you will be amazed at the small things you can do to improve your presentation to buyers. We love what we do, our passion drives us, let us do this for you! We have office space available for rent in Mulberry Hill Office Park from R15000.00 per month. Work close to home for your best life!

Are You Getting Married?

There are various options available when getting married. Herewith a brief discussion regarding your marital regime options.

1. In community of property:

When entering into a marriage in community of property, the parties each have their own assets and / or own estate. After the date of the marriage the two estates join and become a joint estate (provided no antenuptial contract is concluded). This means that in the event of either of the spouses being declared insolvent, both of the parties will be insolvent.

Should the parties get divorced each party is automatically entitled to half of the estate. Should one of the parties pass away, the surviving spouse will be entitled to half the estate by virtue of the marriage in community of property and the other half by virtue of the will (provided the deceased bequeathed their half share to their surviving spouse in their will).

2. Antenuptial contract without the application of the accrual system:

When entering into a marriage with an Antenuptial contract without accrual, things are a lot simpler for the parties involved. Each parties' respective assets remain as such and upon death, the spouse may bequeath their estate to whomever they wish. Upon divorce the parties will not have an automatic claim to each other's estates and will therefore have to enter into a settlement agreement. Normally when there are children involved, maintenance claims will take their course.

3. Antenuptial contract with the application of the accrual system:

When entering a marriage with an Antenuptial contract with accrual, before the marriage each spouse owns their own assets and / or estate. Should the parties entering into the marriage not have a net asset value at the start, each party will enter the marriage with a NIL balance and there may be no exclusions from the marriage. Should the parties have an asset portfolio before marriage, they can choose to exclude these assets from the marriage as well as the future growth in these assets.

When entering into an antenuptial contract, the validity of the contract is essential to determine whether you are in fact married with or without a valid antenuptial contract. In order for same to be valid, the antenuptial contract must be concluded/ executed prior to the date of marriage before a notary public. The antenuptial contract must then be registered in the deeds office within 3 months from date of execution (in the Republic of South Africa) and within 6 months (outside the Republic of South Africa).

Bathroom Paint Colours

The end of the year is fast approaching, but there is no time like the present to spruce up your bathroom with a fresh coat of paint. In addition to enhancing the materials in the space, such as marble or tile, paint colour can set a calming or spa-like tone in a bathroom. Veining or tile patterns can also serve as an ideal point of colour inspiration to tie the entire space together, in addition to complementing fixtures and metal finishes.

And as we continue to spend more and more time indoors, bathroom paint trends are changing, too. 2021, more than any year before, really showed us how important it is to love our homes. While previously we may have thought of a bathroom as a quick, in-and-out type of space, we now think of the bathroom as your personal spa and salon.

Pale Blues

For a perennially popular bathroom paint colour with a contemporary twist, consider a soothing shade of light blue. Blue is a classic bathroom shade, but you can take it into the 21st century with what I like to call a dusty blue, which tends to be cooler and with a hint of grey. Blue draws from the hues of water, so it feels calming and refreshing at the same time.

Moody Greens

If you want to take the leap towards a statement bathroom, we suggest a super-saturated moody green. We are drawn to hues inspired by nature. Moody Green has a deep, verdant beauty to it, which is strong but not overwhelmingly dark, and looks both elegant and timeless.

Earthy Yellows

If you thought yellow paint was too bright and bold for a bathroom, you are mistaken. Although yellow has connotations of being an energetic colour, if you move away from the softer, bluer tones and embrace the rich ochres, you get warmth too. Keep it simple when decorating and accessorize with natural products such as wooden bath brushes and bamboo floor mats, for a sleek, yet subdued look.

Chalk White

A classic paint colour for a reason, you can always count on a crisp coat of white paint to update a bathroom. Although overtly clean in feel, a pure white bathroom, painted in white, creates a very relaxing space. You can add some modern flourish by using a coloured grout between the tiles such, as a soft grey.

DNA Estate Maintenance Update

The Nature Association are continuing to maintain areas on the estate. This year is dedicated solely for maintenance, clean up, education is still a focus, as well as bird walks and talks.

Weeding

Olivia our landscaper is pleased to report that after the weed blitz, which was carried out in May in 15 areas of the Estate, are looking so much better.

The team had to move quite fast to be able to get through the heavy schedule, with absentees and some of the workers taking leave, however the new helpers who were brought in, worked amazingly well, and were a pleasure to work with.

We also gave a helping hand and took the liberty to clean up other areas, normally carried out by golf.

Maintenance & Planting

After the weeding we brush cut some grasslands to just above the rhizomes to allow for the sunlight to get in.

New plantings of love grass have been planted around recent upgrades.

The shade seed grass seeds which were planted just before winter in the corner of the bench at the last dam, is shooting nicely. It will be interesting to see how this grass takes as Olivia is doing a little experiment there with shade grass.

The areas that were all washed away have been fixed and grass planted out along the last stream. The trees in the different areas in Saw Grass have also been lifted, trimmed and the thick tree areas have been cleaned out and new weeds removed.

ANIMATED GALLERY

Photos by Geraldine Harris and Olivia Denny

There are still, lots of Cestrum in the Saw grass areas behind the 4th tee box, which we are going to cut and spray with a systemic spray.

We also removed the sludge at the 4th Dam, and will be removing the Kikuyu growing in the love grass on the bank at the 4th, and then Love grass will be planted when the rains start.

Sludge is also removed off the dams on an ongoing basis.

Clean up

Some of the team will head to the first top dam in Saw Grass at the entry point, as reeds need to be thinned out, and we want to dig and open up some of the silting areas also at the entry point as this is overdue.

Whilst the water level has dropped substantially, this will be a good time to do a clean-up of that area. We have also checked with André Marx and from a birding perspective we have had the go ahead, we will leave pockets of reeds, where necessary and will be once again sensitive to the birds in that area, as we do watch them very carefully when we are working in the dams.

This clean up should take quite a bit of time as the conditions are difficult and muddy.

The other dams are looking OK, not as clear as we would like them, there was one sewerage leak into 3rd Dam, so this was flushed out and 2 more Bio Block tablets have been placed by the weirs to date. Ultimately when funds are available, the dredging machine will still be on the list, and the pump upgrade solution to create more circulation. It is a difficult situation, as the amount of water that comes through saw grass and into Poplar is an unknown quantity, and starts right from the Fourways areas upstream, and as the years have gone by the quantity of water coming down and through those areas have increased tremendously and is a worry.

Aloes

A blitz has been done on Aloes that have been identified with Aphids.

The Aloes and succulents are looking amazing (and if you take the time to watch, the sunbirds are happily flying around too...) the upgrades around the different areas, are quite beautiful at this time of the year.

Our special DNA booklet will be published soon which will have updated nature trails, map, bird lists, tree lists and more .

GARDENING

Turfnet • 073 935 9754 / 011 469 5051/4

Perfect Garden this July

July is the time to Prune.

Aim to get your pruning done between the last two week of July and the first week of August. Transplanting is another common theme during July as many plants are dormant and can be moved without worrying about disturbing them. So if you are looking for a change of scenery or just to update the overall look and feel of your garden, now is an ideal time.

To Do

1. Winter gardening for herbs and veggies:

If you want a good crop of herbs and vegetables in winter then raised beds are a good idea as their soil temperature is higher. Greenhouses and tunnels are recommended in areas with extreme temperature. Only grow vegetables that do well in cooler conditions. Sow seeds of carrots, radishes, broad beans and beetroot until the end of August

2. Prune:

It's a wonder that July has not been renamed pru-ly in south African circles, because a consistent theme this month, countywide, pruning. This is an especially true for fruit trees and roses, but also any deciduous shrubs that may be in need of a trim. Remember to shred all your cuttings and pop them onto the compost heap that you've almost certainly already started, haven't you?

It's important for you to perform the process now and don't delay it until the flowering is done.

3. Improve the layout:

As you can see the bones of the garden, consider possible design changes you could make. In dry areas, winter is the ideal time to build erect a pergola or archway, redo the paths and redesign the beds. Take the opportunity to level sloping, uneven areas and build steps to link different levels.

4. Feeding and mulching:

Do this right after pruning. Remove the annuals that have finished flowering then work compost and organic pellets into the beds. If the soil drains well, work these lightly into the top 3-5 cm. If the soil is clay or rocky, dig in compost to at least a forks depth, but take care not to disturb the roots of plants.

The wonderful surprise A Lesser Striped Swallow Nest

In October last year as soon as the border restrictions had been lifted, I went on a lovely trip of our country which was a tremendous experience after having been cooped up at home for a long time because of COVID.

A trip through the Karoo

My trip took me through the Karoo where I visited Kenhardt and Brandvlei . I remember when I first came to South Africa people told me that this was the most boring and ugly area imaginable and that it was best to go through it as fast as possible. However, I have always loved the Karoo and have made several trips there. The birdlife of various lark and Pipits is very good and I have learned that the best way to study them is to stop by cement dams where they come to drink. Leaving the Karoo behind and going through Calvinia and Nieuwoudtville I was greeted by the most beautiful display of Spring flowers. This almost lasted all the way to Lambert's Bay with its Gannet Colony which is thriving again after the beautiful hide that had been vandalised has been rebuilt. The road along the WestCoast all the way to Langebaan stopping at places like Rocherpan Bird Sanctuary is always an absolute pleasure.

ANIMATED GALLERY

After a brief stay at Somerset West I started the journey back home along the Garden Route and the Karoo National Park. Wonderful to be reminded all the time what a beautiful country we live in.

A wonderful surprise waiting for me at home

When I came home there was a wonderful surprise waiting for me. A pair of Lesser Striped Swallows were starting to build their nest on my patio. They were very tame and would sit on one of the patio chairs completely unperturbed while I had my breakfast. Both the male and female would take turns building.

Capturing it on video

Now for the first time I was able to make a complete video of the way these swallows build their nest. Collecting mud from a dam not very far away they would take small mud pellets in their beaks and guided by a strange intricate and inexplicable instinct carefully place these in position. When they start building and we already know what the final result will look like it seems like an impossible task but they simply carry on and soon it becomes clear that these little birds know exactly what they are doing.

How they built the nest

First they constructed a bowl like shape which enabled them both to sit inside and build. When this was done I wondered if they slept in this bowl during the night. I decided to check this so I waited until it was completely dark and took a flash photograph of the nest. I was pleasantly surprised to see the two swallows on the nest looking very annoyed to have been woken up.

The fact that they went quite far to fetch mud worried me a little. I thought I could make it easier for them by providing a source of mud closer to home.

I mixed soil and water in a large pan and it looked exactly like the mud that they collected. I placed the pan on the patio table right in front of the chair they used to sit on but they ignored it. I know that if I had put the mud on my lawn they would have taken it because once it rained and they walked on the grass and looked for mud. But they ignored my effort because mud is not supposed to be served in a pan on a table.

Raising a family

They stopped building on the 1st of November and I looked forward to them feeding and raising the chicks. I knew that the eggs would take 21 days to hatch and I took some shots of the swallows as they carried food in and removed droppings out of the nest but something was wrong.

Instead of the expected 21 days for the chicks to hatch I was surprised on the 10th of November by three chicks sitting with the adults on the chair ready to fly out.

It made me wonder if they already had eggs while they were still building.

They spent a few days still sleeping in the nest at night but flying out with the parents every morning and then another thing happened! A pair of Greater Striped Swallows suddenly appeared and started building their own nest by simply attaching their mud pellets to the existing nest. They continued building until it was time for them to migrate back to Central Africa.

So now I have this one and a half nest on my patio and eagerly await the return of the two pairs of different swallows next Spring. Will the Greater Striped continue building? Will the Lesser Striped raise another brood? Will they all live in perfect harmony?

Watch this space !!!!

The Video Link will show the complete video of how the nest was built.

Undesirable Tree of the Month:

Beefwood

Casuarina Cuminghamiana

Invasive trees

The Beefwood originates from Eastern Australia and have been planted in South Africa for more than a century. They unfortunately have become a huge problem in the Western Cape, Kwazulu Natal, Limpopo and Mpumalanga Provinces. This tree resembles a Pine tree with its upright growth reaching a height of approximately 30 metres. Beefwood trees carry needles as well as cones that disperse its seeds to form dense stands of saplings around the "mother plant".

These stands can reduce water flow of rivers when they grow along water courses. Therefore, "water hungry" is a good description for the Beefwood.

We would strongly recommend eradication of this tree from suburban gardens.

Good replacement trees

Good replacement trees are the various South African Yellowwoods. Consider the Common Yellowwood – Podocarpus latifolius or Outeniqua Yellowwood – Podocarpus Falcatus.

Both are still slender growing trees. If your garden is on the smaller side, consider Henkels Yellowwood – Podocarpus Henkeli, as it is slower growing and only reaches about a third of the height of the other trees.

BIRD OF THE MONTH

by André Marx

Little Bittern

Ixobrychus minutus

This shy bird is resident on our estate but is seldom observed as it is a retiring species, hiding out in dense reedbeds. When seen the small size in relation to other herons and bittern species becomes evident.

The male has a green-black crown with elongated feathers forming a modest crest. The chin and throat are white with a buff centre and the back and tail is greenish black. The flight feathers show conspicuous buff white wing patches. The undersides are buff white with minimal brown streaking that is variable among individuals. The female is smaller and duller in colour with brown striped underparts.

The flight is rapid for a heron, flying with quick, shallow, clipped wing beats, legs dangling, often dropping into cover. Freshwater wetlands having thick herbaceous vegetation with trees or bushes interspersed nearby are the favoured habitat preference. There are not many localities in the estate with that vegetation but the bird has been found at the dams at Sawgrass and some of the larger dams bordering the golf course that have dense reeds. An interesting aspect of this bird is that when alarmed it assumes the "Bittern Posture" with its bill pointing skywards, a pose designed to avoid detection. The species nests in thick vegetation especially near open water pools. The nest is made of stems of herbaceous vegetation, lined with finer material. 3-4 eggs are laid in the spring and summer months.

The Little Bittern feeds by walking slowly at the water edge, stalking prey from the ground, or more characteristically from a perch, stabbing prey items that it sees. It is primarily crepuscular over much of its range (mostly active at dawn and dusk), but feeds at night and also at times during the day. The diet is varied; fish, frogs and tadpoles, small reptiles, eggs and young birds, worms, insects such as crickets, grasshoppers, caterpillars, water bugs, beetles.

The Little Bittern is a bird of dense marsh vegetation, in which it feeds and nests. Since it forages in the typical bittern manner of walking and standing on marsh plants or branches adjacent to dams and ponds it is incumbent upon us to ensure that this important habitat is preserved in the estate. It is a distinctive, small heron, and the tell-tale buff patches in the flight feathers will tell you that you are onto this species!

FINANCE

The future of money – part 9

Cryptocurrencies – A Summary

By Kreaan Singh

Over the past few months, we have discussed several topics in the cryptocurrency industry. Let's recap.

"...Bitcoin and other cryptocurrencies may not replace the financial system, but they certainly are a stepping stone in the evolution of money..."

What is Bitcoin?

Bitcoin is a digital currency that is designed for an internet-based society. It can be transacted directly between two parties, with no middleman such as a bank required. As such, it cannot be controlled by any government or organisation, therefore existing as a borderless financial system. Bitcoin can be used as money to pay for things like property or groceries, it can be traded for other cryptocurrencies or Dollars, Pounds and Rands, or it can be held as an investment. The base technology behind Bitcoin is called blockchain technology.

How do I buy, spend, accept or store cryptocurrencies?

To buy Bitcoin and other cryptocurrencies like Ethereum, Melon is a convenient way to purchase the top crypto in one bundle. You can also buy and trade cryptocurrencies on crypto exchanges like VALR. To spend, accept or store crypto, simply download one of the many wallets that can be found in your app store, like Exodus. Sending and receiving is done using crypto addresses (similar to bank account numbers) that are automatically generated when the wallet is first created.

Why are cryptocurrencies so volatile?

Because the cryptocurrency industry is so young, there is a lack of regulation in the industry. This creates uncertainty, and, together with a surge in demand and influence by prominent people like Elon Musk, crypto prices tend to change very quickly. While some people invest in cryptocurrencies for the long term, traders fuel this volatility by speculating on insane price predictions – akin to gambling.

Why should I consider an investment in cryptocurrencies?

From a technological and social perspective, cryptocurrencies are beginning to challenge the global financial system. As society evolves, so should the way in which we transact with one another. Bitcoin and other cryptocurrencies may not replace the financial system, but they certainly are a stepping stone in the evolution of money. We may one day find ourselves in a world where transacting in cryptocurrencies become as synonymous as using the internet. For these reasons, it is important to at the very least be aware of a technology that could very well change our lives.

Some key benefits of cryptocurrencies include

- Accessibility – unlike banks, crypto transactions happen around the world 24/7.
- Control – access and backup your money anywhere in the world without needing to ask for permission.
- Scarcity – cryptocurrencies like Bitcoin are limited in supply, just like gold, which has traditionally been used as a store of value.

BAGS OF ♥ Community Outreach

in the Dainfern Community

Thank you Life Hospital for the Winter Warmth

The second week in June, we received a call from Fourways Life Hospital that they had 100 blankets for us during a recent drive in which staff members, schools and visitors heeded the call. After collecting them, we actually counted 196 blankets of all sizes! Dr Muhammad Chohan, a physician at Life Hospital initiated their winter drive in honour of two heroes at the hospital, namely Mr Mondli Mazibuko (registered nurse) and Sudashini Naidoo, (registered nurse in ICU), who both lost their lives during Covid.

Randburg SPCA

A couple of days after that, we put out a plea for pet blankets, bedding and food to be dropped off for Randburg SPCA who were desperate for support. In true Dainfern style, the goods came rolling in from numerous residents and other sources as well as from the Doggy Day Care outside Cedar Road Gate (thank you Kathryn Kruger) and Zoomies (thank you Bryan Cassell) - and we topped off these donations of 160 blankets and 195kg food with 40 of the blankets received from Fourways Life Hospital. We loaded up two 4x4s to the brim and delivered the goods, to the delight of the staff at the SPCA. The following week, Zoomies delivered a further 480kg pet food to the SPCA. Big thanks to all involved by purchasing from Zoomies who donate 10% of food orders placed to animal shelters.

Displaced Families

We also received a plea for help for seven displaced families whose informal settlement had been demolished, leaving them with absolutely nothing! We put together 12 dignity packs/Bags of containing toiletries, pillows and cushions, plus 45 blankets, two large Addis containers packed with food (thank you Bradley Farr), plus bags of shoes & clothing to assist them to get by. These families have been granted temporary refuge at a crèche in the area. A 4x4 was loaded and packed to capacity!

We have yet to collect 60 dictionaries gifted by a very generous friend for a school in Limpopo, plus received various donations including a large bag of party/cocktail dresses and evening wear, baby clothes, a sandpit, trampoline and 70 boxes of brand new Lego!

Sewing Machine donated

We have also received a beautiful near-new electric sewing machine (thank you Dorien Vermeulen-Mangnus, 90 filled picnic boxes for Ma Lizzy's Crèche and Aftercare from 1st Fourways Cub Pack.

This is their Nelson Mandela Day initiative and pulled together for us by resident Ursie Phayre.

Special Award

In the first week of June, we had a special surprise during Donation Day. I was honoured to receive an award for one of the things I love doing most - uplifting and bringing comfort and hope to those who need it most. This award is shared with all the amazing people who support Bags of ♥ - we couldn't do half of what we do without your support. Thank you Ishmail Kauzani of ZIP for this heartfelt acknowledgement and kudos to him for the incredible work he does.

Displaced by a fire in Kyasands

During the last week of June, we heeded the call to assist over 100 people who had been displaced when their shacks burned down in Kyasands. They were all sleeping on the floor in a church which as now been demolished and the families have been split up and temporarily accommodated in numerous different houses. We were able to provide over 30 blankets, baby clothes, bedding, shoes, clothing for all ages, bags of beanies and jerseys, 10 SPAR food hampers, 2 large Addis Boxes filled with food. Huge thanks and respect to all those who came to the fore so timeously!

Gift A Cake donation

A very big thank you to Anne Thornton of Gift A Cake for electing us and donating this exquisite chocolate cake to Bags of ♥ to pay forward to a deserving beneficiary!

We chose Sean Williams' Live Life Always team of 10, as we know they deserve and needed a really special treat!

Gift A Cake is planning to donate a cake every month to worthy cause which we love! Their cakes are sophisticated masterpieces, beautifully wrapped for every occasion.

Take a look at their exquisite work for delivery in the Dainfern and surrounding areas. https://instagram.com/giftacakesa?utm_medium=copy_link Whatsapp 082 565 9256 or 083 601 0241.

DAINFERN
College

Celebrate

A DAY IN THE JUNIOR PREP

The Junior Preparatory phase at Dainfern College is invisible from the road, nestling on the east side of a magnificent campus with enviable facilities. It is a beautiful place with light, open, airy classrooms surrounding a playground flanked with indigenous trees and rolling lawns, beneath the huge, blue African sky. The Grade 0 area adjoins the Junior Prep, with its own playground and a spectacular view of the Magaliesberg mountains to the north. Glorious sunrises herald the beginning of each new day of learning, growing, caring and sharing, and warm, glowing sunsets settle the vibrant energy that is characteristic of the school.

The daily programme

Young students aged 5 to 9 are welcomed each morning by a diverse team of experienced teachers whose passion and love of the children in their care is tangible.

As developers of the future citizens of our world, teachers are deeply invested in an ongoing understanding of how learning takes place, what motivates young children and the importance of practice that aligns with the neuroscience that has shown that the foundations of academic, social and emotional learning are laid down in the brain architecture by the age of nine.

A day in the Junior Prep at Dainfern College is filled with fun, engaging, meaningful and relevant activities that excite and delight our young students, as they gain an understanding of the foundations of literacy and mathematics whilst simultaneously becoming technologically literate and growing in their understanding of each other and their world.

Physical literacy, incorporating sport, skills and activities that develop balance, coordination, motor-planning and core strength, are incorporated into the weekly programme.

Cultural activities like music, art and drama are equally important for all young students as these develop self-expression, creativity, confidence and imagination.

Children learn and understand computational thinking from Grade 0 and robotics, coding and online learning programs augment the academic programme. Each Grade 2 and 3 student has access to an individual school iPad.

About the College

A member of the Round Square international network of schools, Dainfern College has a Christian ethos and its visionary educational environment is based on traditional core values. As an innovative school, Dainfern College celebrates diversity and teaches young students to question, wonder, research and think critically as they analyse problems, create solutions, experiment and explore their world.

Dainfern College Junior Prep is an extraordinary place where happy young students are nurtured and stimulated as they are encouraged to grow and develop the potential that exists in each unique individual.

Dear Residents

We would encourage you to support SIX33 during this difficult time.

Please see the message below from Seton Kretzmar, the Owner.

Firstly, a big thank you to all our loyal customers for all the support we have received between lockdowns.

Once again, we now find ourselves in the difficult situation of not only alcohol being taken away from sales but also any sit-down trade. This drastically affects particularly our waiter and bar staff as they have no clientele to serve.

SIX33 is ready once again to fulfil any household meal requirements, from home-style prepared meals to our A la Carte menu. Ashley is ready to take your orders via WhatsApp or telephone, and our drivers are eagerly waiting to deliver.

Your loyalty and unwavering support through these unprecedented times is greatly appreciated!

For orders: WhatsApp 084 623 1206 or call 011 875 0633

Should anyone want to assist our waiters and bar staff financially, you may do an EFT to: SIX33, Standard Bank Cheque account no: 331182289 with reference Waiter's fund.

All funds will be distributed equally amongst all waiters and bar staff.

We thank you.
