The Nature team will be placing new chip bark in Poplar Marsh and Saw Grass where the path needs to be rehabilitated in places. In the next few weeks we will also be stone pitching in Saw Grass where there is a lot of soil erosion. The dam at the Wetland area needs to be cleaned out in the winter and the Water Hyacinth needs to be removed as well. The reeds will also need to be thinned out in these dams. This will be a slow, but necessary process.

In Saw Grass and Poplar Marsh the roots of the trees are keeping the banks fairly intact for now, but it's wearing thin in places. Professional advice is needed for a long term solution.

Another winter project for us is to create a new path through the 10th Bush Area.

Autumn

We see the leaves changing as Autumn is fully upon us and trust our residents had a blessed Easter and wonderful rest over the holidays.

Welcome home!

Easter Celebrations

We had a wonderful celebration of Easter with a Let's Keep Moving morning on Saturday 16 April, as well as an Easter Egg hunt and tons of entertainment for the children on a cold and rainy Easter Sunday. Parents could relax and enjoy a scrumptious lunch at SIX33 whilst their children were entertained. We thank all the staff involved for the happy smiles from both parents and children.

The Stella Artois Sunshine Tour Players Championship

The Stella Artois Sunshine Tour Players Championship has returned and was proudly hosted by Dainfern Golf Estate for the fourth year in a row. We welcomed 156 players to play on our stunning course from 21-24 April 2022. It was incredible to allow spectators back after they were not able to watch during lockdown whilst COVID restrictions were in place. We had SuperSport filming over the weekend and enjoyed fantastic coverage of our beautiful Estate on both days. We congratulate Jaco Ahlers for being the 2022 Stella Artois Players Championship Winner.

We engaged with City Power, City of Johannesburg and Eskom on a regular basis to ensure that both electricity and water interruptions are kept to a minimum. We thank our amazing maintenance team who work relentlessly, often throughout the night, to ensure that the correct teams are onsite to fix these problems. We thank our Board for their support, advice and guidance in ensuring that we do everything possible to restore these services as quickly as possible.

Century Property Developments making waves in Riversands with the FINAL PHASE of Riversands Outlet Park

It is a well-known fact that Riversands has been bubbling under the surface for some time now. Development of the surrounding areas has been welcomed by the market, and constant and consistent upgrades to roads and services continue to add credence to Riversands becoming a commanding business district as well as a sought-after neighbourhood to live in.

Some years ago, Century Property Developments took a long-term view of the Riversands area, formulating a plan over time that would provide the market with exactly what it needed at the right time; a district that is already redefining commercial parks in Southern Africa. Developed to be a secure complex, Riversands offers a variety of commercial precincts allowing for light industrial spaces; warehousing; storage; showrooms; retail centres; commercial office space; schools; outdoor recreational spaces; as well as residential lifestyle apartments – all spanning over 237,406 hectares.

Riversands attracted the attention of retail giant Makro, who in 2017 opened their incredible Riversands branch. Massmart soon joined in, and in 2020 opened an impressive 75,000m² Distribution Centre. The Riversands Incubation Hub continues its quest in the development of the local entrepreneurial community with incredible results which remains a critical strategic imperative of the plans for this area – to uplift the local communities while providing world-leading property solutions to the market.

Riversands Outlet Park consists of several showrooms coupled with warehousing – and what a statement Century Property Developments is making. Premium offices, showrooms, warehouses and light industrial spaces was made available from mid-2019 to clients looking to make an iconic brand statement and find the ideal home for their business. Phase 1 is almost completely tenanted at an impressive 95% occupancy rate, with a massive demand for the next (and final phase) to be released. Phase two is currently under construction, with several leases already in the pipeline.

Riversands Outlet Park serves as the architectural benchmark for the area, and the bar is not being set low. These premises tick all the boxes in terms of accessibility, visibility, technology and security! Tenants were able to choose from completed spec offices as well as customise their own tenant installation to suit their specific needs.

Once complete, Riversands Outlet Park will have in excess of 50,000m² of lettable space under roof. Designed to bridge the gap between light industrial and showroom spaces, Riversands Outlet Park offers it all. Units provide tenants with the perfect mix of warehousing, manufacturing, showroom and office space – it all depends on the tenant's needs. The 48 units in phase 2 range from 160m² right up to 4,300m². These units are leased at R72.50 per square meter, with flexible short-term leases also available.

Being a brand-new development, Riversands Outlet Park gave Century Property Developments the opportunity to design and plan this business park with a strong focus on creating a state-of-the-art facility in all respects of the phrase. From the best in security services and technologies, to green building technologies and energy saving process, Riversands Outlet Park is set to lead the way in defining a new-age business park. In addition to making use of green business technologies, Riversands is situated in an Eskom power supply area. This means that electricity is vastly cheaper than in other municipal areas, drastically reducing the operating costs of the business operating within it.

Century Property Developments welcomes an opportunity to discuss your business premises and its requirements. Our team will assist you in securing property that not only supports your business, but also adds value to it.

Properties have been selling very well in the Dainfern and surrounding areas. We are definitely in need of new listings which is very good news. After a really static growth period for several years, we hope to see an increase in prices in the next cycle. One never knows with all the external and economic changes what might happen but, we are overdue for an increase in property values. We have seen some excellent renovations over the past 12 months and these have assisted in pushing prices up. Keeping up with modern trends definitely facilitates a faster sale at a better price. When considering renovations you have to think about what improvements will add value. The main things are kitchen upgrades, bathroom upgrades and good entertainment areas. If you do plan to add a bedroom, or a living room, make sure your intrinsics (bones) are good. Focus on flow and generous room sizes as well as appealing landscaping, people love gardens. As we head into winter, homeowners need to think about attending to any damp issues on their properties. We have had excessive rains and 2022 will have affected many properties, some quite badly. This is the season to do the maintenance so that the walls can dry out properly after they have been repaired. Another important factor for consideration, is that these properties are now 20 – 30 years old, and we are in a competitive market with multiple new estates in the north. A freshly painted home with a pretty verge uplifts a whole community! If your Estate looks good and your property is immaculate, the age of the property will not matter! Call us to assist you with your property decisions, whether renovating, selling, or renting!

Want to make alterations to your unit in a sectional title scheme?

Here is what you need to know

As the owner of a unit in a sectional title scheme you are subject to more restrictions than you would be if you were the owner of a freehold property. When you want to make alterations to your property you will need approval from the body corporate and in other instances you will need approval from the body corporate and the local authority.

In this article the requirements as set out in Section 24 of the Sectional Titles Act 95 of 1986, which deals with extension of sections, will be discussed.

Where are your sections boundaries?

In terms of section 5(4) of the Sectional Titles Act 95 of 1986 a section is owned to the median line or midpoint of its dividing floors, walls and ceilings. The scheme's sectional plan filed at the relevant Deeds Registry indicates the boundaries of each section, shown as solid lines.

If an owner of a section proposes to extend the boundaries of the floor area, the following steps must be taken:

1. The owner must obtain the approval by the body corporate, authorized by a special resolution of the owners.
2. A draft sectional plan of extension must be submitted through an architect or land surveyor to the surveyor general for approval.

3. After approval of the sectional plan, the owner must make application to the registrar of deeds for the registration of the sectional plan of extension.

Since the extension of a section will affect the participation quotas of other sectional owners, the approval of the body corporate, authorized by a special resolution of the owners, must be obtained. The extension can either be horizontally or vertically. For example, if your section is on the ground floor and you are adding another room to the existing section or extending a room into the garden area, you will most certainly extend the boundaries of the floor area and the above-mentioned steps must be followed.

The above is merely a brief summary, and should an owner wish to extend his section it is advised to familiarise oneself with the regulations and seek proper advice where necessary.

The art of layering in Interior Decorating:

We continue with the art of layering when creating your perfect interior space.

We all know that the secret to the success of a rich, characterful scheme is layering. So, what is layering in interior – and how do you approach it? Well, each element in a space – paint, wallpaper, lighting, flooring, soft furnishings, furniture, artwork, and accessories – is a layer.

The art of layering is to learn how to use each of these individually and make them work together cohesively – building a room from the ground up.

We look at the ten key elements of layering below – use them to add depth and interest to your space.

1. Choose your main colour, over which to build layers

Colour is the starting point of any scheme and the first layer to consider. We often mention that white creates a blank canvas, but any single colour in a room also works in the same way. However, you can also successfully layer with colour alone.

2. Recognise the importance of flooring in layering

Whether you choose a plain or patterned floor, it is still a key player in the look of your room. If you choose a pattern, then getting the balance right is important as you want the floor to be the focal point – the main decorative aspect.

3. Layer pattern over your main colour

If your main surfaces – floors and walls – are plain, adding pattern is your next step.

Use your main, or most prevalent, colour – to hold the scheme together. It does not matter if the shades range from pale to dark if that is the predominant colour. Then, you can use different patterns and prints to create interest with that colour as the common thread.

4. Use artwork on walls to add layering

Layering walls. Artwork on walls – or gallery walls – give life to plain painted walls and work very well for adding a layer of pattern and accent colour if you are not a fan of wallpaper.

When framing artwork for a gallery wall or mantelpiece, a key consideration is whether to match frames or not. Matching frames can create a smart, uniform appearance, reminiscent of a modern art gallery. If you are after an eclectic look with heaps of character, opt for a mix of coloured and textured designs.

5. Layer flooring with rugs

Rugs are another fabulous element that layer and finish a room as long as you choose a design that incorporates the colours from the rest of the scheme.

6. Layer windows with dressings

Window dressings allow you to pull the scheme together and are one of the final major layers to consider. Choose a print that encompasses the colours you have used on your walls and if the rest of the scheme is plain in colour, then you will be making a design statement with your drapes. If your window is large you can opt for a larger more dramatic print.

7. Add layering with lighting

Lighting can often be neglected when pulling together a scheme – but it can add layering in a myriad of ways.

Often the biggest mistake made is thinking all one needs is a single overhead light for a room, but lighting should be approached in a layered manner. This ensures all the architectural and design features of the room are highlighted, from ceiling to floor.

In order to accomplish a warm, welcoming, and spacious room, you need to embrace the entire range of lighting sources available, pendant lights, recessed lights, chandeliers, track lighting, tall floor lamps, small table lamps, wall sconces, under cabinet lighting, and other spot lighting.

The number one consideration for lighting any space, no matter what the size, scale or budget has to be a dimmer switch. Dimmer switches are a quick and cost-effective way of offering multiple lighting levels in a space, allowing the homeowner to set the tone and change the atmosphere of a room instantly.

And, of course, the textures, materials and colours in your fittings add extra opportunities for you to add layers of accent shades and textures.

8. Add texture to create an extra element of layering

Whether your room is boldly coloured or oh-so-neutral, texture is what will create a diverse and exciting scheme. And you can layer them too – take a bouclé sofa for example – it will be the focal point of your space, but you can still layer it up with scatter cushions crafted from slubby linens that feature trims, buttons, and tassels.

These are not the only textures you can use – a glass coffee table, leather and wood chair and a metal side table will all add desirable layers.

9. Make the most of shapes – and mix them up

In design, we are always looking for ways to add depth and intrigue to the spaces we create. This is often achieved by curating a space filled with beautiful textures and interesting shapes. Many times, this can come from both architecture as well as the furnishings.

10. Add accessories – the final layer

When all the above layers are in place you should have a room in your chosen colour scheme that is nearly finished. The last pieces of the puzzle are the accessories, and they are perhaps one of the most important.

Vases, books, keepsakes, plants, and flowers are those essential items that are the cherry on the cake. They represent you – the vase you bought in Italy, or your most favourite coffee table book, bought on your last vacation. These pieces invoke memories and therefore add that most perfect final layer to your space.

We can assist you in creating beautiful layers to your space!

We will provide you with an one-hour complimentary consultation.

SOULFUL HEALING RETREAT Feedback

On the 8th April our ladies joined us for a day of nurturing the body, mind and spirit. Set in a lovely tranquil setting overlooking the crocodile River at Wildwood Brasserie, Toadbury Hall.

Our morning started with hot muffins and coffee, followed by a warm up to get the body moving then onto some meditation and EFR) emotional freedom technique, tapping and reflexology with Colleen. Sessions on Self Worth and Setting Intentions, Life strategies and Goals were held with Pam on the open deck.

A delicious picnic lunch was provided by Toadbury Hall and the ladies received some lovely gifts from our sponsors and by the end of the day all were relaxed and revitalised, ready to face the challenges and stress we have on a daily basis.

Gardening Chores

To do list to help you keep on top of important gardening chores:

- Water shrubs and plants with shallow root systems like azaleas and camellias during the dry spell in summer-rainfall areas
- Collect seed from late summer annuals like zinnias, cosmos, cleomes (spider flowers), gaillardias and hollyhocks.
- Lift gladioli corns, shake off the soil, then store in a cool, dry place in paper or net bags, discard damaged bulbs. If lifting dahlias, keep them covered with slightly moist sand or sawdust to prevent them from drying out.
- Take cuttings of plants like fuchsias, heliotrope and daisy bushes and soft sappy plants like impatiens and plectranthus which are intolerant of cold, wet weather.

- Trim flower stalks from old liliiums leaving a stump to mark their position. Buy liliium bulbs, keep them moist or plant them temporarily in pots.
- Pinch off faded flowers from Iceland poppies, calendulas, violas and pansies to encourage further flowers.

- Make a note of the position of summer flowering arums and other plants like hostas and eucomis which die back in winter.

- Foliar feed all existing annuals and bulbs fortnightly or use organic compost before the cold weather sets in.
- Cover sensitive plants in colder regions with lightweight, frost cover, hessian, straw or cardboard boxes.

- Lay down thick mulch or contour compost around the frost susceptible plants to insulate the roots.
- Clean up under hedges, clean out gutters and drains, rake up fallen leaf litter and other debris, loosen the soil to expose insect pests which may be sheltering there.

Red-headed Finch

Amadina erythrocephala

The Red-headed Finch is a chunky, greyish-brown waxbill with a robust bill, plain back, boldly barred and scalloped underparts, and a white-tipped outer tail. The head and throat of the male are characteristically red, while the female is uniform grey-brown.

These finches like open grassland with clumps of trees or small plantations, dry savanna, farmyards and cultivated fields and have adapted well to suburban gardens. They are found in pairs or small colonies when breeding, but are otherwise gregarious. They forage on the ground and drink frequently, dipping and raising their bill very fast. When disturbed, they fly to trees or fences. The song is a jumble of whirring notes given with the throat puffed out, often repeated continuously. They feed mainly on seeds and insects that they find on the ground and will visit bird feeders where seed is provided, and will associate with other seed-eating species in mixed flocks.

The breeding season for these birds is mainly the autumn and winter months. Their nest is a ball or pad of grass and feathers in an old sparrow or weaver's nest. Sparrows and weavers will not tolerate the finches at their nests and so the Red-headed Finch has adapted to breeding when those birds have completed their breeding cycle after summer. The nests are either singular or in small colonies. They lay four to six white eggs, with an incubation period of 12 to 14 days. Nestlings remain for 15 to 21 days.

This is a near-endemic species that is found primarily in South Africa. In recent times Red-headed Finches appear to have expanded their range and are more regular in Dainfern Estate today than they were 30 years ago when the estate was established. This cheerful and familiar bird adds to the great diversity of bird species that can be seen in and around the estate.

The Cuckoos in my garden

One of the first things I did when I came to live in Dainfern was to plant a Wild Peach Tree (Kiggelaria Africana)

My main reason was to attract the beautiful Garden Accrea, a butterfly known for its ability to glide in spectacular display flights. Also for the fact that its caterpillars are considered an absolute delicacy by various South African Cuckoos. No other birds take an interest in these creatures.

The tree grew fast and soon the Accreas were seen flying all over the garden. A very welcome sight but as the years went by I did not see any cuckoos.

Great Spotted Cuckoo

Luckily this year my luck changed. One morning I heard the unmistakable call of the Great Spotted Cuckoo. There it was flying from the Wild Peach Tree to different other locations in the garden. Calling almost the whole day and feasting on the Accrea's Caterpillars. Roy and I had seen it in his garden about two years ago.

Great Spotted Cuckoo / wikimedia.org/

Diederick Cuckoo

Unfortunately it did not stay long and I was unable to get a decent photograph. Almost immediately its place was taken by a Diederick Cuckoo which stayed for several weeks. It was an absolute pleasure hearing and seeing it so close and I was able to take some photographs. The caterpillars would leave the tree when it was time for them to pupate, walk across the lawn and climb up a wall. The Diederick would catch them on the lawn and pick them from the wall.

Redchested Cuckoo

Although I often heard the Redchested Cuckoo calling in the distance I have never seen it in my garden. Maybe it found a Wild Peach Tree in somebody elses garden?

How to recognise Birds

Bill: The shape and length of the bill are clues to its feeding habits and identification. Seed eaters have thick stubby beaks while those of insect eaters are usually thin, sharp and pointed.

Legs: Waders generally have long legs whereas those of ducks and geese are short. Leg colouration is also important in identification.

Wings and Tails: The open wing and tail shapes can assist in pin-pointing the species.

Crests: Head crests in many species can be raised or lowered at will. If time allows, watch the bird for at least a few minutes.

Facial Patterns: Chin colour, cheek patches and eye markings are important to take note of.

Eyes: Eyebrows, as well as rings around the eye and eye colouration are important diagnostic features.

Breast Spots: Some birds have a barred breast pattern while others have spots and longitudinal stripes.

Caps and Crowns: These are very distinctive and helpful in sorting out some of the Plovers and Woodpeckers.

Rump Patches: These are particularly noticeable when birds fly up and away from you. Take note of colouration and distinctive markings.

Tail Marks: Take notice of patterns such as bars and stripes especially those displayed by the hawks.

Wing Patterns: Dull or evenly coloured birds will disclose their identity when they stretch their wings or fly off.

Wing Bars: A dull coloured species will often display a distinct or colourful wing bar.

Walking Habits: Birds move in various ways. Wagtails walk, Sparrows hop and Thrushes run.

Flying Habits: Kites hover, Francolin dash for short distances, Kingfishers fly with rapid wing beats near to the water and straight as an arrow, and Flycatchers do complicated aerial acrobatics.

Sound and Calls: The call or sounds may assist in identification.

Large-spotted or Cape Genet

Genetta tigrina

We have an abundant of different wildlife on the estate, one being the Genet who mainly feeds on rodents. We therefore encourage residents not to use rat poisoning as this can cause secondary poisoning to our wildlife and birds. Let nature help eradicate naturally.

Here are a few interesting facts about this elusive creature:

Appearance

The Large-Spotted Genet has a shoulder height of 210mm, but this species is short legged. The elongated body has a length of 460 mm and a mass of 1.6 kg. The thick, black and whitish-grey ringed tail is long at 400 mm. Claws are short, partially retractable and are an aid to climbing. No sexual dimorphism is obvious. Rows of rusty spots enclosed with black rings cover the brown or tan upperparts. The black rings merge into lines on the neck. The belly is whitish. They have white patches around the mouth, nose and below the eyes. The Large-Spotted Genet can be confused with the Small-Spotted Genet, the main difference being the white tipped tail of the latter compared to the black tipped tail of the large spotted species. Another difference is the entirely black spots of the small spotted genet which are without a rusty centre.

an average of three young per litter after a gestation period of about 70 days. Indications are that the young remain in nests, made above ground, until they are weaned.

Behaviour

This is a solitary species, only occurring in groups during the mating season. Well wooded and watered areas are preferred habitats, particularly forests and closed woodlands. Some dense vegetation for shelter and close proximity to water are essential habitat requirements.

Where are they found

The Large-Spotted Genet is distributed in South Africa from the southern and eastern coast, KwaZulu-Natal, Mpumalanga, Northern Province and extending into neighbouring countries.

Diet

The bulk of its diet consists of rodents and other small mammals such as insectivores, whereas birds, snakes and amphibians are secondary prey. Invertebrates only make up a small portion of its diet. Will also ingest fruit.

They are known to take in grass which assists in their digestion and to induce vomiting to get rid of toxins they may have ingested.

Breeding

Normally breeding takes place during the warmer months. The Large-Spotted Genet gives birth to
