Dear Residents

Maintenance and more...

By Olivia, Youngson and teams

Bird Walks

Keep your eyes open for our next bird walk.
 We shall post on our social platform closer to the time.

Maintenance

Maintenance continues behind the scenes and as always, our nature teams are hard at work continuously removing alien plants and cutting back the dead grasslands so that the sun can get into those rhizomes in order that we keep our grasslands healthy.

This has been completed in Olive Walk, Sawgrass, the 4th, and 6th areas, Poplar Marsh, 8th fairway, 9th fairway, caffra cut through. Next on the list is the Wetland area.

Weeding of invasives also needs to be carried out before the cutting of the grass. Thankfully the cold weather does slow down the weeds a bit, for us to catch up in areas like Bush Baby area, which we shall be tackling in the next few weeks.

Dams

We will keep a watchful eye on the reeds and hyacinth in and around our dam areas, this will always be ongoing maintenance.

Flora

It brings such joy to see the nectar feeding birds feasting off the flowering Aloe's and succulents around the estate, the enrichment value of having looked after and created a landscape for all of our other small creatures, birds, small mammals, butterflies, spiders, moths, hedgehogs, mongoose, frogs, turtles etc. is always at the core of our work, making it a sanctuary for the broad range of small creatures we have, which captivate and amaze us daily, in and around our beautiful surroundings.

Photographic

Please email your photographs of creatures, landscape, birds and anything of beauty to Colleen so we can show case them in the In Focus magazine.

Email: cobbie@global.co.za

André Marx's Trophy

Our beautiful trophy sits in the glass cabinet at the Clubhouse. This is awarded to anyone who has assisted in any way to our environment.

We welcome nominees.

CEO Report DAINFERN

By Geraldine Harris - CEO

The estate has been bustling with activity, with many projects underway. The solar installation has begun, alongside several other projects that need to be completed during the winter months.

Morning coffee initiative

Our Dainfern Cares early morning coffee initiative has been well received, especially during the recent cold spell. The DHA will continue running this initiative throughout July on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays. Stuart Martin of Best Deck has kindly sponsored Thursday coffees, and we would welcome sponsorship for Tuesdays as well. This initiative would not be possible without the invaluable assistance of our Fidelity team, who help with the early morning setup.

Orienteering Event

We have received overwhelmingly positive feedback on our Father's Day weekend events. Both events were firsts for Dainfern and, based on the success, will likely be held again. I participated in the orienteering event with my family; it was a fun adventure with 20 waypoints on the 6 km course. We managed to complete 10 in an hour, while the winners impressively completed 17. Thank you to SIX33 for the hot chocolate and cookies at the end, and to Jonny's, SIX33, Gifts by You, Col' Cacchio, and Dainfern Golf for the prizes.

Dad Fest Car Show

The Dad Fest Car Show on Father's Day morning was a standout event. Residents of all ages enjoyed the display of cars, boats, bikes, and quads. The DJ kept the atmosphere lively, and the coffee truck provided much-needed caffeine for early morning attendees. A huge thank you to the Lifestyle team, our residents who showcased their vehicles and to our exhibitors (Carshop Rivonia, Sports & GT Classics, Biker's Warehouse, and Chasing Cars).

With the winter solstice behind us, we can look forward to spring and longer days. In the meantime, stay warm and enjoy the estate's beauty, even in the middle of winter.

GARDENING

Winter Gardening

HERBS AND VEGGIES

If you want a good crop of herbs and vegetables in winter, then raised beds are a good idea as their soil temperature is higher. Only grow vegetables that do well in cooler conditions.

Plan and prepare beds for spring vegetables. Enrich the soil quality by spreading a thick layer of good quality compost throughout the vegetable patch. If space allows, add to the nitrogen content by planting a green manure, like lucerne or clover now and digging it into the soil when it starts to flower. Plant another batch of cabbage, Asian greens, Swiss Chard, carrots, radish, and lettuce and do a last sowing of peas.

ANIMATED GALLERY

PRUNE

Prune roses towards the end of July or the beginning of August. Treat bare stems with a fungicide / insecticide cocktail to kill insect eggs and fungus spores. Feed with a rose food of your choice. Top up the mulch layer, keeping stems free of mulch, and water weekly early in the morning.

Deciduous fruit trees, bushes and vines must be pruned earlier this month during their dormant season.

Semi-hardy and tender shrubs should rather be pruned in September after the danger of frost has passed. This includes plants like Hibiscus, Gardenia, Solanum and Durante.

Don't prune spring-flowering shrubs until they have finished flowering, or you will remove most of the flowering buds.

Trim and cut back woody bits on autumn flowering climbers.

AI readiness:

Is your business ready to navigate the AI landscape?

Contact Zinta Strydom, Commercial Director at zinta@richeattorneys.co.za

There is no denying that Artificial Intelligence (AI) appears everywhere. AI is rapidly transforming various sectors, from healthcare, our workforce to finance, and from transportation to entertainment. We even see Meta AI on private messages applications. As AI technologies become more sophisticated and pervasive, they bring about significant legal and ethical challenges. Striking the right balance between leveraging AI for business automation and safeguarding personal data is a critical concern for modern enterprises.

This article explores strategies to achieve this balance, ensuring that businesses can reap the benefits of AI while maintaining robust data protection standards.

In essence, the laws encapsulate the following AI legal principles:

- Avoid harming humans absolutely.
- Be helpful, honest, and accurate, and assume human preference — unless this causes harm.
- Be transparent and protect privacy — unless this causes harm or dishonesty.
- Stay secure and functional — but ethical imperatives come first.

Businesses are often caught in a dilemma between optimizing operations through AI automation and adhering to stringent data privacy regulations. On one hand, AI can streamline processes, enhance customer experiences, and drive growth. On the other hand, the data-driven nature of AI raises concerns about privacy breaches, data misuse, and regulatory compliance. It is proposed that business adopt a privacy-first approach by implementing the following approaches:

- Data Minimisation: Collect only the data necessary for specific AI functions. This reduces the risk of data breaches and helps comply with privacy regulation.
- Anonymization and Pseudonymization: Transform personal data into anonymous or pseudonymous forms to protect individual identities while still allowing AI to analyse the data.
- Consent Management: Ensure that data collection is transparent and that users provide informed consent. This can be managed through clear privacy policies and easy-to-use consent mechanisms.

LEGAL MATTERS

- Implement Robust Data Security Measures.
- Encryption: Use advanced encryption techniques to protect data both in transit and at rest. This ensures that even if data is intercepted, it remains unreadable to unauthorized parties.
- Access Controls: Limit access to personal data to only those employees or systems that require it for their tasks. Implement role-based access controls and regular audits to monitor access.
- Security Audits: Conduct regular security audits and vulnerability assessments to identify and mitigate potential risks in AI systems.

Balancing the protection of personal information with the utilization of AI for business automation is a complex, but achievable goal. The key is to create a harmonious integration where AI advancements and data privacy come together, fostering both innovation and trust. The legal landscape of AI is still in its formative stages.

Traditional business frameworks may not be adequate in today's modern world. As AI continues to evolve, we must step up to balance ethical business practices. Please contact us should you require data privacy advice.

What we offer?

- Regulatory Compliance Audits:
Assistance with South African, European or other international regulations and guidelines.
- Data Impact Assessments:
Perform data protection impact assessments to identify and mitigate risks associated with data processing activities.
- Contract review and drafting, as well as Policy and Procedure Development.
- Data Processing Policies:
Develop robust data processing policies that outline how businesses collect, store, use, and share data.
- Training and Awareness Programs
- Drafting Agreement and Policies
- Privacy Notices:
Create clear and concise privacy notices for websites, applications, and other digital platforms to inform users about their data rights and how their data is used.
- Rights Requests Handling:
Assist businesses in managing data subject rights requests, such as access, rectification, erasure, and portability requests, ensuring timely and compliant responses (i.e. PAIA manuals).

Home Renovations

Challenges of working with contractors and how to solve them

For renovation pros, skilled contractors can turn a good project into a great one.

Here is how to work well together:

Whether you are hiring a builder, tiler, carpenter or any other contractor, their skills will be invaluable to the finished outcome of a renovation project. How do you ensure everyone is on the same page and the process is a smooth one?

We share the common challenges we come up against when working with tradespeople and our tried-and-tested tips for keeping everything on track.

Challenge 1: Unexpected delays

Hold-ups can be time-consuming and expensive, and often arise when unforeseen changes disrupt a project's timeline. One major cause of this can be a lack of detail when it comes to communicating a plan.

While it might seem that choosing particular furniture or lighting will be the cause of expense, it can often be a miscommunication with a contractor leading to an exhausting and dreaded extra. Over the past 15 years, we have realised the very basics are just as important as the more glamorous elements of a renovation.

The solution: We have developed detailed tender documents and cloud-based sheets. These allow us and our clients to ensure everything we set out to achieve is done with maximum efficiency. Although we may come across something totally unforeseen during a construction project, we have found our level of detail in these early stages to be invaluable.

Challenge 2: Misunderstandings

There are times when even a detailed plan can go awry, leading to jobs not being carried out as you had hoped.

Even with the most extensive technical plans, with every detail covered, the best contractors can sometimes miss important details, requests and requirements. For example, when installing a kitchen, we may ask a contractor to cut the kickboards and ensure the plinth runs through. We may then turn up on site and this has not been actioned.

The solution: We have found this is easily overcome when we run through the plans in person with the contractors. People communicate in different ways and when we run through a plan, not only are we engaging them, we are working as a team with a much better combined effort towards fantastic results.

When we project manage a job, we aim to turn up on site regularly, at least once a day, at important points to support people. This also opens up opportunities to ask questions.

Be on hand or on site as early as possible if there are any problems. Always be present when any trade contractors are finishing their agreed work to run through snagging items or things you as a designer or your client are not happy with.

Challenge 3: Clashing schedules

If you and your contractor are working to different timelines, it can make things a lot more complicated. Builders and contractors usually work to their own project timelines, and very often this is fitted in-between other jobs that they all run simultaneously. This can cause knock-on delays if other projects are experiencing unforeseen problems.

The solution: To overcome this, we have a clear brief and timeline, which we run through with the builders and tradespeople before the project starts. We agree a specific date, start time and finish time, and a "time contingency" in case we come across any unforeseen problems or works take longer than anticipated.

This actually happens a lot, particularly when coordinating many different trades. So the more you can anticipate and plan for this, the better.

Challenge 4: Opposing communication styles

Sometimes, frustration can arise when the communication styles of a contractor and a client are different.

Our clients are often from a professional background, in jobs that are often focused around high levels of communication, be it through emails, messaging or phone conversations.

The solution: Balance is key when it comes to communication expectations. Encourage contractors to communicate as quickly as possible while understanding no contractor worth his salt has time to be constantly on their computer or phone. Also try to relay the information to the contractor in such a manner that they are not being bombarded with information and requests.

We hugely enjoy the personable aspects of our job, and love being the go-between, ensuring a smooth project, communicated effectively and successfully,

Challenge 5: Finding the right pro

It is of course vital to consider whether a contractor's work is right for the project you are managing.

Different contractors, tradespeople and specialist trades all have different levels of quality and ways in which they finish their work.

The solution: We recommend you check out a contractor's work beforehand by viewing photos of previous work, having conversations with existing clients and even doing site visits.

Different contractors vary in their capabilities. They all have their place in the market and it is important to select accordingly. You cannot expect to get all three of the following – good quality, quick results and low price. So it is worth being patient and taking the time to find the right person.

We have worked with some fabulously talented individuals who are open to new ideas. Our favourite quality in a contractor is a person or team always looking to improve, learn and move with the times.

Nurturing our Urban Environment

Have you ever wanted to attract Owls in your garden.

Eco solutions provide boxes for these beautiful creatures that are so important for keeping our rodent population at bay. No need for rat poison, let nature do its work!

For those who already have an owl box or two, have you ever wondered why that perfect owl box in your garden remains empty? It's a conundrum Eco Solutions are passionate about solving.

Here's the scoop:

Nature's Preferences:

In the wild, Spotted Eagle Owls prefer nesting on rocky outcrops, creating cozy cups for their owlets. Urban settings, bustling with lawnmowers and curious pets, make ground nesting risky. That's where owl boxes swoop in to save the day.

The Secret Ingredient: Gravel

Inside your owl box, gravel isn't just for decoration - it's crucial for mimicking the ground-nesting conditions these owls adore. It provides the foundation for a safe, comfortable home.

What's in a Box?

To you, it might be an owl box, but to our feathered friends, it's a sanctuary - a tree cavity replica where urban wildlife can thrive. Throughout the year, various species might pop by, each adding their touch of nature. While this can sometimes mask the gravel, making it less appealing to owls, fear not EcoSolutions are able to assist.

Our Commitment - Service and Support:

That's where our dedicated team comes in. We're here to ensure your owl box remains an inviting haven for owls. Regular servicing keeps the gravel substrate intact, preserving its appeal to our wise, feathered neighbors.

Pre-maintenance

Post-maintenance

A Beacon of Success - Did you know?

We proudly oversee over 120 occupied and maintained owl boxes across Gauteng, making it possibly the most successful owl box project in Africa and beyond. Together, we're setting the standard for wildlife conservation and urban biodiversity.

So, let's continue our efforts to support owl habitats and urban wildlife!

By the late André Marx (Archive)

Cape Sparrow

Passer melanurus

When checking through the list of birds featured in this column recently it dawned on me that one of our most familiar birds that we may see nearly every day has not been featured. So, this month is devoted to the Cape Sparrow.

This is actually our most handsome, brightly coloured sparrow, with males and females showing different plumage. The male has a distinctive black head and throat with a striking white crescent extending from the eye around the ear. The female has a pale grey head with a diffuse pale crescent. House Sparrow and Southern Grey-headed Sparrow lack the distinctive facial pattern of the Cape Sparrow.

Pairs and small flocks are resident in the estate and can often be seen at bird feeders and in gardens. This is a social bird that often occurs in small groups, particularly where food is provided. The Cape Sparrow mostly eats seeds, foraging in trees and on the ground. The larger seeds of wild grasses and other small plants are preferred. Buds and soft fruits are also taken and insects are eaten, while nestlings seem to be fed exclusively on caterpillars. Birds will also probe in aloes for nectar.

This small bird, which grows to a length of up to 15 centimetres, is quite flexible in its choice of nesting place. Both parent birds collect twigs and any fluff and feathers they can find as nesting material and put it all together in an untidy nest in a tree. Cape Sparrows are said to be monogamous, with breeding pairs staying together all year round and are thought to maintain a partner relationship until one of them dies. Clutches contain between two and six eggs, but typically three or four. Both parents incubate the eggs during the day although at night only the female incubates while the male roosts outside or in the nest. Breeding happens primarily in the summer months, particularly from November to February.

When settled agriculture arrived in the Cape Sparrow's range hundreds of years ago it adapted to cultivated land and with the arrival of settlement it has moved into towns and cities where it has fared well. In Dainfern it is a ubiquitous species and we admire this endearing and cheerful bird which is very much part of our environment.

Puffins!

For quite some time I have been wanting to film those interesting seabirds known as Puffins.

My daughter, Adele, lives in Bath and I found out that not too far from where she stays there is an island on the West Coast of Wales known as Skomer Isle. I asked her to arrange accommodation for me near there. My son and my other daughter, Carol, also decided to come so I had the pleasure of their company for two weeks in the UK.

After a few months of planning the four of us found ourselves approaching Skomer Island in a small boat. We were welcomed by thousands of Puffins!!!! Some in the air, some swimming and others resting on cliff faces. Landing on the island we made our way to the Wick where we knew the Puffins were breeding and where they apparently were very tame so we could see them feeding their chicks. Skomer Island is a bird paradise. There are other interesting birds which I hope to describe in later articles but for now let me concentrate on the Puffins.

They belong to the AUK family. The male is slightly larger than the female.

Their flight is extremely fast like pigeons flapping their wings at 400 times a minute. They spend winter and autumn in the open sea. They can dive very deep (60 meters) and stay under water for about a minute.

They dig burrows in which they lay one egg. Visitors to the Isle are warned to stay on footpaths all the time to protect these burrows. The parent birds catch mainly sand eels which they can keep in their beaks (See photographs) Chicks eat whole fish and grow very rapidly. After six weeks they're fully grown and make their way to the sea at night. They swim away from the shore and do not come back to the island. They are at risk from the large gulls. Watching and filming them was a great thrill and a wonderful memory. Next month I will tell you about some other interesting sea birds.

Turning Trash into Treasure

Driven by her love for adventure, the city life and anything that brings people together; all these elements brought together to accentuate their various cultures, histories and art.

She somberly watched the rapid pace of urbanization take over the places she once loved and appreciated for their beauty. This led her to choosing the path she did, the path of environmental planning; let me introduce Gamuchirai Mutezo- 'Madam Waste'.

Madam Waste, as quoted on their website, is a 'unique company that takes pride in its Afrocentric approach to waste management'- as Ms Madam Waste says herself- it was the intrigue she found in the knowledge of being able to turn waste into absolutely anything; that captured her attention and allowed her to build this business. My fellow South Africans would be delighted to know that 'anything' really means anything- even electricity can be turned from waste!

What makes Mutezo undeniably distinctive is because while most people would not like to get down and dirty in all that waste, as well as being continuously questioned as to "why would a woman like waste?"- her answer is simple; she loves it, all the gross, unbearable, smelly parts of it!

Apart from her love for her work- Mutezo is an advocate for waste diversion, showcasing circular economy in action but most importantly, she would love to change and amplify people's mindsets about waste.

Madam waste's next projects are to set up demonstration projects about waste management in Gauteng and she believes as a member of Dainfern Business Club; her demonstration rooms will be filled with fellow supportive members.

Mutezo's golden advice to everyone reading is to simply laugh your problems away; it's truly better than crying.

Distinguished audience- waste management encourages all to breathe new life into old materials.

Rallying Together to Better Fourways:

The Journey Continues

In our initial article, we introduced the passion and dedication of Better Fourways, a spirited group of residents committed to revitalising our beloved neighbourhood. The initiative was sparked by Raffaella Carnicelli, a long-time Dainfern resident, who was struck by the rapid decline in her beloved Fourways upon returning from her travels abroad. Inspired by a similar project in Bedfordview, Raffi believed that while talking about issues feels good momentarily, real change comes from taking action. Her vision for a cleaner, safer, and more vibrant Fourways quickly gained momentum, rallying the community to join forces in making a tangible difference.

Progress and Achievements: A Testament to Community Spirit

When Better Fourways was formed, the vision was simple yet powerful: to restore and maintain our neighbourhood's beauty, safety, and livability. Fourways's rapid changes and decay had not gone unnoticed, and a collective effort was needed to reverse this trend. So far, our journey has been one of dedication, hard work, and community engagement, reflecting the true spirit of living in Fourways.

Here's a detailed look at the initiatives and projects that have brought visible change to our community:

1. Grass Cutting and Landscaping: The centre island and sides of the road from the main intersection at Broadacres and Winnie Mandela Drive to Stone River Drive have undergone extensive grass cutting. This project has improved the aesthetics and enhanced the safety and visibility for drivers and pedestrians alike.

2. Litter Sweeping and Removal: We have diligently swept and picked up litter along the same stretch, ensuring a cleaner and more welcoming environment. The removal of rubbish has significantly reduced the risk of pests and contributed to the overall cleanliness of our streets.
3. Vegetation Management: Bushes encroaching onto the road have been removed, and overgrown trees have been trimmed back. This effort has been crucial in maintaining clear sightlines and reducing hazards for motorists.
4. Stormwater Drainage: Blocked stormwater drains in the same area were cleared, preventing potential flooding and water damage. This maintenance is essential in managing our infrastructure and ensuring the longevity of our roads.
5. Comprehensive Cleanup: From Witkoppen Clinic to Fourways Crossing, we have removed all building rubble, alien plants, and litter. This massive cleanup has restored the natural beauty of our environment and eliminated eyesores.

6. Signage Management: We continue to work tirelessly to remove illegal signage that obstructs views and poses risks in traffic. Our commitment to maintaining clear and safe roadways remains steadfast.

We extend our heartfelt gratitude to our sponsors, whose generosity has made these projects possible. Their contributions are a testament to the shared vision of a better Fourways. We want to acknowledge the following sponsors:

We particularly highlight the Broadacres Drive Association (BDA) for their continuous support and encourage the community to join us in backing this vital initiative. The involvement of Auto & General, cutting grass from Stone Ridge to Diepsloot, is another shining example of corporate responsibility in action.

Better Fourways remains committed to transforming our neighbourhood into a cleaner, safer, and more vibrant community. However, our work is far from over. We need your continued support and sponsorships to sustain and expand these efforts.

By contributing to Better Fourways, you are investing in the future of our community. Every donation, no matter how small, makes a difference. Together, we can ensure that Fourways is not just a place to live but where life thrives.

WELLNESS

Easy winter

Butternut Soup

½ Tbsp. olive oil
2 garlic cloves minced
1 onion diced
1 butternut squash peeled and diced into cubes
4 cups vegetable broth
1-2 tsp. salt

1. In a heavy pot, heat olive oil over medium heat. Add onion and garlic. cook until softened, about 5 minutes.
2. Add cut up butternut squash and vegetable broth. Bring to a boil then cover and simmer for 15-20 minutes until squash is softened.
3. Carefully pour entire contents of pot into blender. Add salt.
4. Blend until smooth. Serve in bowls with thyme if desired. Enjoy!

No Knead Crusty Bread

3 C all-purpose flour • 1/4 tsp. instant yeast
1 1/4 tsp. salt • 1 5/8 C water

1. Combine dry ingredients in a large bowl and stir in water until well blended.
2. Cover bowl with plastic wrap and leave in a warm place to rise for at least 12 hours (16-18 hours is better). To make this easy and to avoid having to use a new piece of plastic wrap each time, I cover the bowl with a plastic shower cap.
3. Next, place the dough on a generously floured work surface, sprinkle with flour, and fold it in on top of itself two to three times.
4. Turn the bowl you were using at first upside down over the dough and let it rest for 15 minutes.
5. After 15 minutes, shape the dough into a ball.
6. Coat a smooth cotton towel with flour and put the ball seam side down, dusting the top with more flour.
7. Fold sides of towel over top of ball and let rise for 2 hours.
8. The dough should double in size.
9. 30 minutes before the dough is ready, heat oven to 450° and put a 6 to 8 quart heavy pot with a cover (pyrex, cast iron, enamel or ceramic work best) in to heat.
10. Remove the pot from the oven and dump the dough ball seam side up into the pan.
11. Cover the pot and bake for 30 minutes.
12. Then remove the lid and bake another 15 to 30 minutes or until the loaf is nicely browned.
13. Remove from oven and cool on rack.

June was another Great month for Bags of ♥ to assist a destitute woman with a dying baby in the Joburg CBD. The thugs took his phone, his wallet and withdrew money from his account. Another generous (new) resident donated his fridge to a woman in Cosmo City who desperately needed one.

We arranged the transportation with a super-reliable, professional guy who owns a transportation service in Thabo Mbeki informal settlement. If you would like to make use of his services, call Champion on 062 417 0512.

June was another great month for Bags of ♥ in that we received two large donations into our account which has helped enormously with the purchase of blankets (over and above the 60 blankets we received from ZOPCO), beanies, gloves and toiletries, monthly groceries for the pre-school we support, transportation costs, food parcels. We also co-sponsored Youth Day for the Kamaria-Maison Foundation with t-shirts and cooldrinks supplied to us by Ayni Marketing. We supplied the Gogos too with a further 10 handbags filled with fun items to complete their educational camp stay at Koru Camp in the Balule area.

A very kind resident donated a phone to a young leader of an upliftment organisation after he was attacked during a scam, wherein he heeded a call

ANIMATED GALLERY

New puffer jackets

We also received 12 beautiful, new puffer jackets/windcheaters for ages ranging from two years old up to late teens.

These, along with the bulk of the blankets have been delivered to an exceptionally poor community which we support in Limpopo – and they are incredibly grateful. We often don't realise how exciting a new item of clothing or bedding is for people who don't have them!

TEARS Foundation

On Friday 14th June I had the privilege of being included in the TEARS Foundation's staff lunch/awards which included an amazing drumming session lead by the Drum Café. The theme of the event was "Celebration of Life". Bags of ♥ gifted TEARS with 10 beautiful new handbags filled with goodies as dignity packs, for women and girls who have suffered sexual assault or any abuse. The speeches by founder Mara Glennie and Sophia Williams-de Bruyn OMSS ("Auntie Sophie"), who is a former anti-apartheid activist, and the last living leader of the Women's March. Born in 1938, Sophia was the first female recipient of an award for exceptional national service and still soldiers on!

Gender based violence (GBV) is on the rise and the TEARS Foundation needs your support! They do incredible work for survivors of violent abuse, by offering counselling on a 24/7 toll-free line, dignity packs and clothing. You can help by training to becoming a volunteer, by supplying sanitary pads and toiletries, small note-books, pens, scarves, small juice, savoury and sweet snacks, gently used large handbags and clothing.... or donating into their account (details on the posters). In Dainfern, these can be delivered to Bags of ♥ each Wednesday 08h30 – 11h30.
