Dear Residents

Nature Association Update

September/October is such a pretty time of the year.

DNA maintenance

update by Olivia Denny

I feel excited with the warmer weather and the joy of the first signs of spring, with the new leaves on the trees and the smell of jasmine in the air, a wonderful time to embrace the new season and give thanks.

We in nature are thrilled to have completed the last summer and winter cycle clean ups.

ANIMATED GALLERY

2024 has been a busy year for us and to finally be on top of things before the rainy season, makes the hard work well worth the effort.

Sawgrass Dam areas kept us busy and on our toes from the start of 2024 with the frequent sewerage leaks, keeping the dams clean and controlled has been quite a challenge. The good news is that the undermining which has been worrying us for many years is finally been dealt with, new gabions are being built at the weir points in dam 1 and 2 and unsightly soil erosion holes down the gully areas are finally going to be filled to help slow down the soil erosion. This should all be completed by the end of October, this year.

The de-silting of dam 1, where a dredging machine is needed, will have to be put on hold for another year, as preference in other areas down in Trent Walk, are also on the list for this year.

It has been fun watching the new coots and white face ducks experimenting with our new floating islands, it gives us great satisfaction watching them.

PLEASE can we remind walkers to pick up their dogs' poo.

We now look forward to our summer rains and green grasslands.

Bird Walk

We had another successful bird walk recently.

If you would like to join us on the next bird walk, look out in the newsletter for the next date. bring your cameras and binoculars along. Sadly no dogs allowed.

We would love to showcase your photographs. You can submit to 083 604 3996 or cobbie@global.co.za

ANIMATED GALLERY

Birds and Beasties

We have had sightings of young African black duck, and baby coots as well as of nightjar, Crimson breasted shrike, grey hornbills - lots of bird life from the birders.

Thank you to all who have shared photos of our beautiful wildlife.

CEO Report DAINFERN

By Geraldine Harris - CEO

Dîner en Blanc

On Saturday 14 September Dainfern hosted its first inaugural Dîner en Blanc on our stunning 1st Fairway. This iconic event was made possible through the generous support of our sponsors Windhoek, Inverroche, Century 21 Fourways, BMW Fourways, Fidelity and Safe Waste.

Originating in Paris in 1988, Dîner en Blanc began as a gathering of friends, characterised by its elegance and the unique tradition of wearing white to create a sense of unity and visibility in a public space. Dainfern's beautiful 1st Fairway served as the perfect backdrop, while the excellent cuisine and thoughtfully arranged tables fostered a sense of community and connection among our neighbours.

The evening was truly unforgettable, with many expressing hopes that it will become an annual highlight. Special recognition to our Lifestyle Director, Brandon, for his vision in bringing a signature Dainfern event to life, DHA maintenance who assisted with the setup and to Marinette van der Walt who navigated the challenges of organising an event of this scale with grace and skill.

Maintenance and Projects

The solar at both gatehouses has been commissioned, and our maintenance team has begun with the repainting of the gatehouses. Broadacres Gate is completed, and the refresh has made a visible difference. Our two major projects – the solar and gabions on the Jukskei – are nearing completion.

The next major projects on the horizon include the installation of the multi-purpose court at the Pavilion, gabions on Trent Stream and the swimming pools at the clubhouse and Pavilion. The clubhouse upgrade and bunker project will commence in early 2025.

GARDENING

Simple ways to give back to Earth

October gardening is all about making those dreams and pictures you see in your mind come to reality, and then having the patience and energy to see them gloriously right in front of your eyes.

If you have done nothing yet, don't worry, but loosen your breaks! You are going to plant, feed, prune, pick, deadhead, water, harvest and keep an eye on pest and disease attacks.

Spring flowering plants like Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow, crab apples, and cherries are also in full bloom; not forgetting the beautiful bearded irises, foxgloves and delphiniums. Luckily, we are all inspired to garden at this time of the year because there is no time to rest for gardeners in October.

If you really want a good return on money spent in the garden this season you need to get cracking and plant this month. This will give you the whole season to reap the reward of summer.

Picking up the lovely garden roses can be done at any time of the day, if they go straight into a bucket of cold water. Do not pick more than 50% of the long-stemmed blooms on any one plant at a time, as a big loss of leaves can cause root shock which sets back growth. Rather pick again as more flowers are produced.

Clivia miniata

Enjoy the last flowers of the Clivia's. If they need to be lifted and divided, do it after the flowering phase at the end of the month.

General Task

- Split and divide overcrowded perennials, ornamental grasses and succulents.
- Prune all your spring flowering plants as soon as they have finished blooming.
- Mulch the roots of your spring plants and feed with contour compost
- Scarify and feed your lawn with contour Lawn dressing
- Feed your camellias with contour compost
- Feed your Hydrangeas with contour compost

LEGAL MATTERS

Vicarious Liability and Workplace Harassment:

When must employers step into the harassment boxing ring?

Contact Zinta Strydom, Commercial Director at zinta@richeattorneys.co.za

Harassment in the workplace, whether it be sexual harassment, bullying, or discriminatory conduct, is not only detrimental to the victims, but also poses significant legal risks for employers. In South Africa, the principle of vicarious liability dictates that employers can be held responsible for harassment perpetrated by their employees, even if the employer did not directly participate in or condone the conduct. The key question often revolves around whether the wrongful act was sufficiently connected to the employment. This concept is particularly significant in cases of workplace harassment, where the question often arises: when must employers step into the harassment boxing ring?

Two tests apply to determination of vicarious liability. One applies when the employee commits the delict while going about the employer's business, which is the standard test. The second applies where the wrongdoing takes place outside the course and scope of employment, which is the "deviation" cases.

1. Booyesen v Minister of Safety and Security: Defining the Employer's Responsibility

In Booyesen v Minister of Safety and Security, the court examined whether the Minister was vicariously liable for the actions of a police officer who committed assault while off-duty, but still in uniform. The court ruled that the employer was vicariously liable, emphasizing that the officer's use of his uniform and the authority associated with his employment were critical factors. Although the officer was off-duty, the uniform created an appearance of authority and power, facilitating the assault. This case established that the employer could be liable if there is a sufficient connection between the employee's conduct and their employment, even if the misconduct occurs outside of official duties. This is a so-called deviation case.

2. The Underwriters Case: Extending the Workplace Beyond the Office Walls

The Underwriters case dealt with harassment that took place during work-related social events. The court found the employer vicariously liable, noting that work-related social events are an extension of the workplace. The employee's conduct, although occurring outside the traditional office environment, was closely tied to his employment.

Key Takeaways for Employers

The lessons from these cases underscore the broad application of vicarious liability in harassment cases:

- Sufficient Connection Test: Employers must understand that liability is not confined to actions within the office or during working hours. The test revolves around whether the misconduct is sufficiently connected to the employment relationship. Proactive Workplace Policies: Employers should implement comprehensive anti-harassment policies, extend training to cover behaviour at work-related events, and ensure that employees understand the consequences of misconduct. This approach not only mitigates liability, but also fosters a safer work environment.
- Swift Response and Accountability: Employers must respond promptly to allegations of harassment, conducting thorough investigations and taking appropriate disciplinary actions.

DISCLAIMER: This summary is solely intended for educational and training purposes and does not purport to contain legal advice. No reliance may be placed on the information herein contained. Independent legal advice is to be obtained when confronted with any legal / Court related problem.

Vicarious liability in harassment cases compels employers to engage actively in preventing and addressing misconduct by their employees. Contact Riche Attorneys Inc. on 011 465 3809

Glossy Ibis

Plegadis falcinellus

The glossy ibis (Plegadis falcinellus) is a striking bird found in various wetland habitats across South Africa. Known for its iridescent plumage that shimmers in shades of green and purple, the glossy ibis often feeds in shallow waters, searching for insects, crustaceans, and other small invertebrates.

Glossy Ibis spotted in the Jukskei river on the estate - photos by Mike Tindall

South Africa has four different Ibises. The Hadedas, The Glossy Ibis, the Sacred Ibis and the Bald Ibis. The Glossy Ibis is a regular visitor in Dainfern especially after rain, when the ground on the golf course and other areas is soft and muddy.

Like most Water Birds, Ibises have what is known as a "Bill Tip Organ". This highly specialised organ picks up vibrations made by worms and certain insects as they move around in the soil.

Researchers have found that our Glossy Ibis has the largest "Bill Tip Organ" while the Hadedas the smallest and the Sacred somewhere in between.

It is believed that because sound vibrations travel much faster in water they need to be able to detect movement very quickly so they have more sensitive bills.

Success with every move.

The visitors to my pond in Dainfern

Last month I wrote about my fish pond and mentioned some interesting visitors I have had, I would like to tell you more about the various creatures that arrived seemingly out of nowhere.

There were times when I had to drop the level of the pond water to a certain depth. Almost immediately a Hamerkop would appear and walked up and down shuffling its feet stirring up something edible. It seemed to know exactly when the water was shallow enough to walk in.

Seeing this hamerkop in my fish pond brought back memories, An old friend of mine, Mike van Hoogstraaten, had purchased some very expensive gold fish that had been imported from China.

He had instructions that before placing them in a large pond they had to be kept in a special aquarium with various chemicals for two weeks. Mike had done this and was glad when the time came to place the gold fish in his fish pond. He was working in his study from where he could see the pond and was surprised to see one of his expensive gold fish jumping around on the lawn. He ran outside and put the fish back in the water. He could not understand how this fish had come out of the water. He found the answer the next day. This time he saw two gold fish jumping around on the lawn but also saw a hamerkop shuffling along like hamerkops always do, He saw that whenever a gold fish came too close it would grab it and carefully place it on the lawn.

Mike wondered why it did not eat the fish and when he told me this story I also realised that I had never seen a hamerkop eat a fish. It seemed more interested in the frogs that it brought to the surface with its "shuffling". I would be very interested if any readers had actually seen a hamerkop eating a fish.

Bats

Creatures that only come out at night from seemingly nowhere, fly like stealth fighters and whose habits are a mystery to most, will spawn myths and superstitions.

Bats will get caught in your hair – they may fly close to you hunting insects, but they have excellent echolocation navigation skills and are too busy feeding to bother with your hair.

All bats have rabies – less than 1% of bats studied have rabies. Rabies in bats is not common, however, if you do find one on the ground, do not pick it up with your hands. They do bite.

Bats are flying rats or mice – they are not even distantly related to rodents, other than also being mammals.

Bats are blind or have poor vision – bats can see perfectly well. Many also have super hearing and their built-in sonar is nothing short of a superpower.

Bats feed on blood – this myth is best left in Hollywood as only three species feed on blood and none of these are found in Southern Africa. Southern African bat species feed mainly on insects, with a few feeding on nectar and fruit.

Bats are the only mammals capable of true flight, that is, flight powered by muscular movement as distinct from gliding.

There are 75 bat species known in Southern Africa, of which 56 species occur in South Africa. Of the 56 species, 39 are found in the northern part of South Africa.

The two species most prevalent in Gauteng are the Cape Serotine Bat (Neoromicia capensis) and Yellow House Bat (Scotophilus dingani).

The most common bat in the area is the Cape Serotine Bat, a very small brownish bat with a greyish underbelly and semi-scruffy fur. They are tiny, weighing 6,5g as adults with a length of 8,5cm and a wingspan of 24cm.

Although they see well, they rely primarily on their highly developed hearing, using echolocation (sonar) to avoid collisions and to capture insects in flight. They eat beetles, lacewings, moths, mosquitoes, plant-sucking bugs and whatever flying insects are available. An adult Serotine Bat can eat between 2000 and 3000 mosquitos in one Summer's night!

Cape Serotine African bats may live in a variety of different places including caves, cracks and crevices in rocks, under loose bark, under overhanging leaves, inside road culverts or hollow tree trunks, animal burrows, in basements and as many people already know, inside roofs.

Bats at rest hang head down, grasping a twig or crevice with their clawed feet; they take off into flight from this position.

They live in small groups of up to about 20, hiding away in any crevices, roofs, between corrugated iron sheets or gaps in brickwork and enjoy timber and natural stone cladding. They are so small that many people aren't even aware that they are living in their house roof. They are unobtrusive in their roosting behaviour and in small numbers do not usually cause any damage to roofs or homes. They will however readily occupy a suitable bat house.

Females give birth only once a year to singles, sometimes twins and rarely, triplets, anytime between October and November in the warm summer months.

Unlike Batman, these little creatures are true superheroes, and residents are encouraged to install bat houses to provide homes for them.

*Spooky bats go flying at night,
Flapping about in the pale moonlight.
Spreading their wings, they're a scary sight!
But truth be told, there's no need for fright.*

*Spooky bats are really not bad.
They eat harmful insects, for which we're glad!
They're somewhat shy, I might also add.
But never grab one - it could get mad!*

*Spooky bats like to sleep in the day.
They hang upside down and doze that way!
Caves and trees are where they stay.
Until it grows dark - then it's up and away.*

Cape Serotine Bat
(Neoromicia capensis)

Most cats enjoy eating plants

Now that we have entered the Spring season and have begun enjoying the sunny days, we may notice our feline companions either eating indoor plants or grass outside. In the old days, people believed that this was to make them bring up something unpleasant that they had eaten. Most cats enjoy eating plants but whether it is to provide roughage or whether they just like the taste of it is still a mystery. It is normal cat behaviour and, as responsible owners, it is up to us to be mindful of which plants they can and cannot eat.

Decades ago, I had a beautiful alley cat named Murphy. I came home to find him panting and vomiting and immediately rushed him to the vet. They believed he had been poisoned and wondered if he had eaten something toxic. I searched the house, the garden and places where I thought I may find what had poisoned him. I did a lot of research and eventually found what I was looking for. To my horror, I had inadvertently poisoned my cat by having lilies on the table where he ate. Unbeknownst to me at the time, the whole lily is highly toxic to cats, including the leaves, pollen, flower and even the water in the vase. Some pollen must have fallen where Murphy had walked towards his food, and he must have licked it off whilst grooming. He went into kidney failure in a matter of hours.

Murphy stayed at the vet, on a drip, for at least five days and eventually I was able to bring him home. Although I was blessed to have had him for a few more years, he never fully recovered and developed heart problems.

If you don't know which plants are toxic, it may be worth growing grass, or certain herbs, (mint) in an indoor pot for your cat to eat. Spring means lawn dressing, pesticides and chemicals in our gardens. These are all toxic to cats. As most cat owners know, catnip in a pot or sprinkled on the floor can seriously get a cat going from 0 – 100 in a few seconds. They get as high as a kite and absolutely love it, but, if your cat doesn't respond to catnip, it's because he simply doesn't carry the gene to react to it. It's genetically predisposed so it's not the quality of your catnip. Spring means beautiful flowers, let's make sure they're not toxic to our companion animals.

Tragedy and Joy!

Sadly, for a lot of communities, winter brings with it the tragedy of shack fires, in which owners lose absolutely everything they possess. Having already assisted 11 families in Diepsloot when their dwellings were razed in mid-September, we were alerted to – and assisted with – seven more shack-fire cases. Thankfully, we were able to provide 4 utility tubs each filled with 30kg food, duvets, kitchenware, clothing and some toiletries, with thanks to several thoughtful Dainfern residents.

We were also able to:

- ♥ Provide the Homework Assist group in Thabo Mbeki informal settlement with 100 pens and 100 rulers.
- ♥ Provide three hundred rulers and 300 pens, to an aftercare facility in Maseke, Limpopo, which 200 indigent children from the community attend on a daily basis.

- ♥ Pay, as per each month, for the monthly groceries required by Ma Lizzy's after-care facility in Thabo Mbeki informal settlement.
- ♥ Provide refreshments of sandwiches, fruit and juice to the LLA clean-up team every weekend

- ♥ Pay for a new slide (for the gym donated some time ago by Dainfern Golf Estate) thanks to some of our very generous members of our community, to replace the broken one which which was both a safety hazard and a disappointment to the children in the after-care facility at Ikemeleng Foundation in Diepsloot.

- ♥ Donate several pairs of excellent quality curtains as well as a good deal of baby clothing & equipment to the Village of Joy Childrens' home (new premises).
- ♥ Delight six single mothers (who run SPAZA shops in Diepsloot) and some of the shack-fire survivors with Solar Lamps, which we received from Kids for a Cause.

As always, our heartfelt thanks and gratitude goes to all those who are members of our Outreach WhatsApp group and to everyone who contributes towards our causes on a monthly basis.

WE NEED MORE FUNDING, PLEASE!

It's not often we have to ask for funding, as generous friends and residents always assist, but we do currently need a "cash injection" as there have been a lot of expenses, particularly with regards to groceries and other supplies needed to help those who have no food and/or lost their homes. If you would like to help, these are our banking details: FNB Broadacres, Account 62884846240

- ♥ Donate a Nebuliser and a set of brand-new "scrubs" to the Witkoppen Clinic.
- ♥ Provide (via a very generous resident who always contributes to our projects) 60 prego meals every Friday of the month - initially to patients at the Witkoppen Clinic and now to the children at Ikemeleng Foundation.

Importance of Sleep

Sleep is incredibly important! It plays a crucial role in physical health, mental well-being, and overall functioning. During sleep, your body repairs tissues, supports immune function, consolidates memories, and regulates hormones. Lack of sleep can lead to issues like decreased focus, mood swings, and increased risk of chronic conditions.

A good night's sleep is key to feeling your best!

Most adults should aim for about 7 to 9 hours of sleep per night for optimal health. However, individual needs can vary based on factors like age, lifestyle, and personal health. Kids and teenagers generally need more sleep, while older adults may need slightly less. Listening to your body and adjusting as needed is key.

The sleep cycle typically progresses through these stages multiple times a night, alternating between NREM and REM (rapid eye movement) sleep, which is important for memory consolidation and emotional regulation.

Sleep Hygiene:

Maintaining a regular sleep schedule, creating a dark and cool sleep environment, and avoiding technology before bedtime may help with better sleep quality.

Consult a professional if you battle to sleep.

Sleep waves

Refers to the brain activity patterns that occur during different sleep stages. There are several types of brain waves associated with sleep:

1. Beta Waves: Present when you're awake and alert.
2. Alpha Waves: Occur during relaxed, calm states, often before sleep.
3. Theta Waves: Found in light sleep (NREM stage 1) and during deep meditation.
4. Delta Waves: Characteristic of deep sleep (NREM stages 3 and 4), crucial for physical restoration and recovery.

TIRED OF BEING EXHAUSTED?

Do you wake up tired, and regularly suffer from headaches? Are you aware of snoring at night and struggle to lose weight? Are you struggling to control your blood pressure?

You might be suffering from a common condition called Obstructive Sleep Apnea (OSA).

At SleepFourLife, we offer state of the art diagnostics to diagnose sleep apnea in the comfort of your own bed. We offer a complete diagnostic, treatment and follow up service once diagnosed with obstructive sleep apnea.

DAINFERN YOUNG STARS IN THE SPOTLIGHT

Written by Carlyn Sithole

Out of the Maze: Reclaiming your life from the rat race

A few months ago, Dainfern Business club members took a different approach to their usual meetings and had the opportunity to play the Cashflow 101 game designed by Robert Kiyosaki which teaches players how to invest and acquire assets- the main goal of the game is to advance your financial education and assist you in discovering the hidden patterns behind your current spending patterns and essentially get out of the rat race.

This race that like most likely received its name from lab rats racing through a maze in scientific experiments, running wildly to reach a reward; similarly in human life, the pursuit of success can feel like a never-ending cycle, with each achievement quickly followed by new challenges and more goals to chase... a perpetual loop, eventually leaving you trapped.

The rat race, aside from leaving the obvious consequences such as burn out and exhaustion; has much deeper consequences such as the neglect of your personal life, losing sight of your purpose or lack of fulfillment.

The Cashflow game is not only meant to provide amusement for adults but it is designed to help players essentially escape the rat race, it is salient for players to realise that breaking free from the rat race does not only require the accumulation of wealth and assets but rather individuals redefining what success is to them, prioritising a life of quality and the embracement of lifelong learning.

Esteemed readers - My advice to you is regardless of your definition of success; view it as a journey, rather than a destination and most importantly; Escape this rat race with immediate effect!
